

Clash Situations - Summer 2023

It is not unusual to find two or more examinations scheduled for the same day and time. Depending on the length of the papers involved, most clash papers are sat back to back:

- GCSE Languages exams - Listening & Reading
- GCSE History exams - Superpower Relations & Early Elizabethan

Occasionally the combined duration of the clash papers are too long to sit back to back. In this situation, they are sat in the earlier or later session of the day. If this occurs, students will find themselves under supervision from the morning until their afternoon examination has finished.

Students under supervision will need to bring their revision materials in hard copy and a packed lunch/drinks. There will be no access to mobile phones, the internet, computers, any electronic devices or other students/teachers.

This table lists clashes taking place this summer:
